NEW YORK, MONDAY, JANUARY 13, 1890.

A Bill Which Will Prevent the Unjust Commitment of Children.

"The Evening World's" Crusade Ending in Victory.

Elbridge T. Gerry the Author of the Measure.

Everybody remembers the sturdy fight which THE EVENING WORLD made in the last Legislature for the bill which prowided for a review by a superior tribunal of the cases of children committed by police magistrates to asylums and other ins itutions. That measure, designed as a safeguard against the injustice often done to parents and guardians by hasty commitments where all the facts and circumstances have not been prought out before the police magistrate, failed to become a law.

Despite defeat, however, THE EVENING the principle which it so persistently championed last year, and this week there will be introduced in the Legislature a bill that will provide a sure and adequate remedy, and which it may be predicted with almost absolute certainty will become a law within a very few weeks.

The new bill has been drawn up by no less able and learned a lawyer than President Elbridge T. Gerry, of the Children's Society, who was the principal opponent of last year's bill.

He has come around, however, during way of thinking, and has admitted very frankly that an evil has existed in the past which demands a speedy and complete remedy, and he has constructed a bill which will, as he has shown, fill every requirement of the case.

"The first case which The Evenino World brought up a year ago," said Mr. Gerry to-day, in conversation with a reporter, "set me thinking, and when other cases of the same kind had been taken up and decided against us, I came to the conclusion that The Evenino World was right in demanding an amendment of the present law.

"Last Winter, when The Evenino Conclusion of the Fall, has a total of 147.

the reason I did not introduce a measure of my own.

"I opposed The Evening World bill conscientiously, for I believed then and still am convinced that it was not what was needed. I will explain.

"In that bill the remedy proposed was by writs of habeas corpus and certiorari. Now, any bill which gives a judge the power to go behind a final judgment in a criminal case, as these commitments are to be regarded under the Penal Code, on a writ of habeas corpus, is a violation of the principles of the law as established in many decisions in the Court of Appeals.

"Besides being a cumbersome method, it would also be expensive, for a judge would have to send the matter to a referee to take testimony, and the parents or would have to send the matter to a referee to take testimony, and the parents or the institution having custody of the child would be be obliged to pay big fees, according to the decision of the referee.

"What the new bill proposes is strictly in accord with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure as they exist to-day, and the remedy I believe slready exists in the law. The object of the proposed peal. Section 750 of that: nal Procedure provides that:

A judgment upon conviction rendered by a court of special sessions, police court, police magistrate or Justice of the Peace in any criminal action or proceedings or special jet # rding of a criminal nature, may be re-viewed by the Court of Sessions of the county upon an appeal as prescribed in this little, and not otherwise.

This, Mr. Gerry argues, already gives the right of appeal in children's cases, but he proposes to add after the words "special proceeding of a criminal nature," the words "including the com-mitment of children by police magis-trates," so that there will be no mistake about it.

This will at once place these cases on the same basis with any other criminal proceeding, and aspeals may be taken to the General Term of the Supreme Court. The addition of these few words are all The addition of these few words are all that is needed practically, but other clauses in the bill, which is very brief, provide for a few additional sufeguards.

These are to the effect that the Society or Institution having the custody of the child shall be served with a notice of appeal, and shall be heard in the final argument and that pending the appeal.

There is no expense to the parties, for the county pays all the expenses of such proceedings, and there is no delay be-cause the statute a ready provides that such appears shall take the preference over all the other business of the Court. It will also be provided that the taking of the appeal shall not be limited to the parents of the child, but any one who had the legal custedy of the child at the time of its commitment shall be authorized to

The same time limit shall rule as at present, that is within ten days of the commitment, but in cases where the comcommitment has seen made without the knowledge of the lawful guardians of the child, and the time has claused within which the appeal shall to taken the Judge may in his discretion order an appeal. This provides against all accidents shutting on the right of the parents or others to amueal.

dents abutting of the right of the parents or others to appeal.

Another provision is made for the taking of storographic intuities by the police magnistrate in all cases of communications of that the uncertainties of the oral testimony as how taken will be avoided and a full record kept of each case.

An amendment is also made to section 755, in regard to the manner of delivering the afficient to the manner of the transfer of the afficient to the manner of the transfer of the transfer of the afficient to the manner of the transfer of the transfer the Clerk of Special Sossions will have nothing to do with these matters.

The general disadvantages of the habeas corpus proceedings will thus be avoided and justice will be rendered with greater speed and certainty, while the merits of each case will be fully reviewed by the higher tribunal.

The Appellaic Court is given the widest discretion in all matters of appeal, so that there is very little danger of a miscarriage of justice, and all parties can be heard.

there is very little canger of a miscarriage of justice, and all parties can be heard. In uniting with The Evenino Womld in securing a remedy for the existing evil Mr. Gerry expressed his admiration of the energy with which the campaign had been conducted thus far by the champion of reform, and said that he was convinced that if the work exercised on in concern. that if the work was carried on in concert in the future there was not the slightest doubt that the bill would be passed by both branches of the Legislature and signed by the Governor without op-

'In the first place there is no principle of the law violated, as in the case of a remedy by habeas corpus, and the remedy itself is perfectly logical, consistent and complete.
